ORGANIZATIONS

Nocturne at Sweet Briar

When I'm alone in moonlight,
It seems that earth and sky are such great things,
Eternally alone and self-sufficing,
And people are so small.

To-night the earth is many-shadowed.
There are wide, dusky fields, and slender trees,
With branches etched in black upon the sky,
And over all a great, still radiance
Of blue suffused with silver. The yearning light
—Spirit of beauty, seeking embodiment—
Enfolds me utterly, I am no more,
And there is nothing anywhere at all
But that still, silver loveliness.

The Sweet Briar Student Government Association grew out of an earnest desire on the part of the students to assume individual and community responsibility for their own conduct in matters not strictly academic. Dignity and honor pertain to Student Government, and it is a means whereby the highest ideal of self-development in a social group may be obtained. The success of Student Government depends upon the high standard of honor, personal and collective, of the entire student body, and the co-operation of every member, who should feel it her individual responsibility to raise the standard and ennoble the life of the community in which she takes her place.

The Sweet Briar Y. W. C. A. aims to bring to the students an opportunity for organized social service, and to certain groups of people in the community, classes and entertainments. On campus there are chapel services and a library of modern fiction. The freshmen on their arrival at college are met and assisted in some of their adjustments to college life. Among the outside activities, the chief ones are with the Sweet Briar maids and the children at the Indian Mission.

Tau Phi affiliates those upper classmen who are prominent in the broader fields of college life, and who are deeply interested in the arts and sciences. Its aim is to further their interest and to recognize their worth in giving of themselves for Sweet Briar. Thus, by combining academic excellency and extra-curricular activity, Tau Phi hopes to maintain a unique place among the organizations at Sweet Briar.

In a locality rich in historical material such as exists around Sweet Briar, it seems fitting that there should be a club here whose purpose is to foster research into local history. Not only does the History Club aim to study the past at its own door, but also it strives to keep up with the issues and problems of the present day.

We have had for our special attention this year the study of various aspects of Colonial Life in America and, to further interest in this, several trips have been taken during the year to neighboring places of historical significance.

Because we believe that thought is essentially social and is enriched when it is shared, and because we find pleasure and profit in the appreciation of literature, past and present, we have organized the English Club.

The English Club is made up of all juniors and seniors who are majoring in English. The purpose of the club is to afford an opportunity for the study and enjoyment of literature beyond the limitations of the classroom.

The Brambler? It is hard to describe for it has been and hopes to be such different things. Formerly a comic, its ideal is to become a kind of mirror, wherein one may catch a glimpse of creative thought, outlined for a moment in its transition from idea to memory.

RAGS AND TAGS

To the Class of '28

Uh-huh, old c'ass of twenty-eight,
We guess you know you're wrong this time.
You said we'd soon forget you all,
But no—that's why we write this rhyme.

We miss each one of you swell gals
In every old familiar place
It doesn't seem quite right we think
Not to meet you face-to-face.

As we go walking out to Rheas
And see the noisy, rowdy crowd,
We cannot help but wonder where
You are, aloof and proud.

Proud of being what you are,
The nicest gals we've ever seen—
A star to hitch our wagon to,
A guiding star, we mean.

The Golden Stairs we now find out
Are only made of stone
(We 'spose they'll get that gilded look
When they are ours to own!)

The front seats in the Chapel now
Have lost much of their grace,
For sophomores of our freshman year
Are sitting in your place.

And when to Mrs. Wills we go
To take of tea or dinner,
We long to see you so darned much,
We eat less and grow thinner.

The library fails to be this year
For work an inspiration
Because you lend no helping hand—
The rest bring irritation.

In plays and shows you were the best,
Your singing was the stuff,
You weren't too doggonded dignified
And yet you weren't too rough.

As all our petty troubles rise
We really feel quite blue
Because you always were right there
To tell us what to do.

Oh, high and mighty twenty-eight,
We find we're lost in words,
In glowing praise and adjectives,
And memories in herds.

And so we'll cut it short and say,
"Thanks for being you,"
This book joins in with all of us,
For you helped make it true!

CHUNG MUNG

The Chung Mungs Are Coming to S. B. C.

"Ain'ts and Asses, swellest lasses,
Not one nub.
"Paint and Patches are no matches
For this club.
"We ain't no Sarah Bernhardts,
Jane Cowl has us licked
But for our personalities
we were picked.

AIN'TS AND ASSES

The Dean and the President
Were walking 'neath the moon;
They wept like anything to see
The end was coming soon,
Because the present Senior class
Was doomed to leave in June.

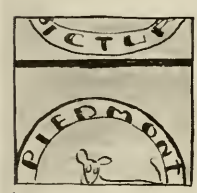

"If we should try to make them stay
Another half a year,
Do you suppose," Dean Dutton said,
"That they would get it clear?"
"I doubt it," said Miss Glass most sad
And shed a bitter tear.

"Oh, faculty, come walk with us,"
Dean Dutton said, said she,
"To talk a bit and walk a bit
In Boxwood greenery."
Then one by one they all came out
And sat beneath a tree.

"The time has come," Dean Dutton said,
"To talk of many things,
Of Rhea's and cars and chewing gum
And what the Glee Club sings.
And how the Freshmen get their dates,
And Juniors get their rings."

"'Tis true, 'tis true," Miss Glass replied,
"Forsooth, 'tis hard to see.
The ways and means of college girls
Are far too much for me."
So all then bowed their heads in shame,
And wailed most bitterly.

The "Talkies"

"Up! — It's down too far — well, why can't you?"

"I'll won't go any farther. I'll have to push it the other way"

"Well, whatever you're going to do, do it! You're a swell farmer!"

"Say, how about doing it yourself, hot stuff?"

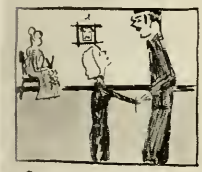

"There! It's ok now Needs more light, though"

"By the way, did you put new carbons in?"

"Of course, wat!" — "Whoops, look at the figure!" "And the hair cut!" "How about moving out of the way?"

"Say, its running swell now"

"Is that Gary Cooper?"

"How should I know? Try asking PET!"

"My dear! Mrs Barrett's buggy! — Help! Call the Dean!"

"whatshisname is divine — Hey! Where's the screw-driver?"

"How would I know? Say, you ought to see them now! Get more light, this is getting good!"

"Great Gooby! It's upside down! What shall I do?" "Turn it off, you sap!"

"Well now, what the heck happened?" "Don't stand there like a dummy — kickout, that's hot! What did you do with the plugs?"

"You dodo! It's still crazy — what didja do to it?"

"Say, shut up for about five minutes, willya?"

"There! — I suppose we're missed all the good part now!" "Just hold your breath and pray"

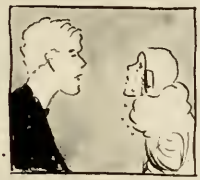

"I told ja! We missed it!" "Boy, that's pretty!" "Yeah, you'd look pretty too, if somebody dumped you out!" "Is that so?"

oF Sweet Briar

"Hey, quick — the hero, betcha two bits!"

"Oh now, ain't that sweet?"

"Say, I kinda like that hair!"

"You would! Exponent of 'Sobriety & Clean Living Society'—"

"Aw shut up — he looks like that one from Virginia with Moss."

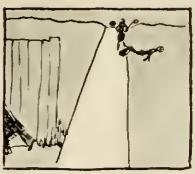

"Ah — dotty beeznus!"

"Say, was that guy over here with Lankford again this weekend. Look-out, how do you expect me to "see"?"

"Whoopee! Say, now if he kills the Apollo I'll be sore!"

"Looks like Charlottesville. Have you heard about their last murder?"

"Yeah. They are getting sort of Cosmopolitan-ett what?"

"Must of hit him Toughy!"

"Say, I'm sure in Charlottesville — she may be the girl Pete Mann's gal."

"Hope she hit him!"

"Sure she did — probably doesn't smoke."

"It says 'Came The Dawn' — that's a new one!"

"What's that funny noise? Do you suppose it's going to break? Pray."

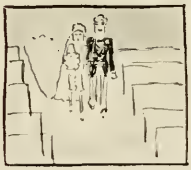

"Whoops — I told ja he wasn't gonna die Isn't he sweet?"

"Like a lily!"

"22k! Get out of the way say now I've gotta see this! Help, censors!"

"It'll break right about now, I can tell."

"Oh now, I ask you!"

"Is this necessary?"

"So sudden"

"Well, it's been nice."

"Hey, where are the pliers?"

"Hey, is that the end?"

"Yeah, the end."

"All?"

"All"

"Gr-eat Grooby!"

Calendar

September 17.—One hundred and forty-four new convicts arrive to serve four-year terms at the Sweet Briar Woman's Prison. They are met at the train by Warden Tyler and conducted to cells by Turnkey Marshall and Callison.

September 19.—Fried chicken, as we live and hemstitch!

September 20.—Old-timers' reunion.

September 21.—Convicts begin hard labor.

September 24.—English department gives a tea.

September 29.—Junior-Freshman party at Rhea's. First known non-refectory social proves a great success.

September 30.—Step-singing. Tau Phi annexes fourteen new gals of scholastic merit and extra curricular acitvities. Clung Mung presents the 1929 play queens.

October 3.—'Nitiation.

October 4.—Sweet Briar Day at Amherst County Fair. Willie's name is scratched on the cup a second time.

October 10.—Senior-Sophomore party also at Rhea's.

October 18.—Gypsy, Ad, and Gussie tell us whom to vote for and why.

October 19.—Miss Margaret Hamilton entertains with piano music.

October 20.—Mac and Prent have dates.

October 23.—Varsity Council reigns.

October 25.—Umbrellas, satchels, and gym stockings are selected for campus use by the Class of '32. "Quality Street" charms a large audience.

October 26.—Founder's Day. "Look at them there Seniors. My, but ain't they grand?" Dr. Sizoo makes even the back row whisperers listen.

October 30.—International Relations puts on a bout between Messrs. Scott and Edwards. Dr. Folsom, referee.

November 7.—Martha Lee is elected president of the Oriental Club. Jo Kluttz and Ad Henderson unanimously chosen news reporters.

November 9.—Miss Applebee gives a few pointers on how to "roll in," "plunge," and "pass."

November 9.—S. S. McClure lectures on "The Making of a Magazine."

November 10.—Sweet Briar beats William and Mary hockey team.

November 24.—Sweet Briar beats Westhampton hockey team.

November 29.—Thanksgiving. Candles, flowers, and TURKEY. V. L. Granville makes some lightning changes in "Dramatic Interludes."

December 1.—Briar Patch movie. Reel breaks only five times due to the efficient management of Coles and Reahard.

December 8.—Miss Randall's three one-act plays are big hits. Patsy Jones demonstrates what the well-dressed coyote will wear. Hattie Williams makes Bernhardt look like a movie extra.

December 10.—Heavenly liver for dinner.

December 14.—Concert by Herbert Heyner.

December 15.—The Senior Show shows us what a real show should be.

December 20.—"Bum" Minstrel creates Christmas spirit.

December 21.—All prisoners get Christmas parole.

January 7.—Those few who are not (1) having teeth pulled, (2) sick, or (3) unavoidably detained, return to the institute.

January 11.—Dr. Meiklejohn.

January 14.—"A Roman Wedding" is presented by the Latin Club. Heath proves crafty at "passing the buck."

January 16.—Diddy Mathews reaches her majority.

January 17.—Hans Kindler plays the 'cello.

January 20.—"The melancholy days have come."

January 26.—Honor Banquet or bust.

February 2.—Busted!!!

February 4.—Once more the good old round of classes begins.

February 8.—Mid-winters with its attendant thrills, fears, men, and crepe paper decorations.

February 9.—The aftermath is held in the Refectory.

February 13.—Norvell Royer is elected President of Student Government.

February 14.—Valentines from Blitz prove that she has not lost her talent for portraiture.

February 15.—World Conference speakers.

February 16.—Sweet Briar vs. William and Mary, there; 24-16, William and Mary.

February 20.—Belle Brockenbrough is elected May Queen.

February 22.—Count Carlo Sforza speaks.

March 5.—Dancing Recital in the Refectory.

March 7.—Banquet for the brilliant.

March 9.—Movie. Junior-Freshman party at Rhea's.

March 23.—"Peter Pan." Mac proves the worth of the Daily Dozen.

March 29.—Spring vacation at last.

The rest of the Calendar can only be guessed at, but we are fairly certain that it will contain May Day and Commencement, with diplomas for the Seniors and a step toward the goal for the rest of us; and thus ends the session of 1928-29.

Banging of door. Dropping of books. Scraping of chairs. Heaving of sighs. (Do you remember?) Weary brains coming here to wrestle with the intricacies of Thorndike, Green, Gummery, Shakespeare, and Russel. (Sleepy eyes to read "Pages 519-574 inclusive.") . . . Outlines of Psychology. . . . Ugh! Miss Weary snatches Gummery savagely from the reserve shelf and drops in the nearest chair. She informs the other occupants of the table that she has never been so tired. A lengthy discourse on the absurdity of the ballad, for which it seems that Mr. Gummery is directly responsible. The table voices approval and appreciation. A girl in a riding habit enters and announces that she found out she has a paper due and she had a warning in the course, so now she can't go riding and wouldn't that gripe you? Miss Rebel, finding that "How the South tried and failed" is too much for her, shows all her friends the swell article in New Masses called "Capitalists, The New Pedigree of Hogs." A loud "s-s-s-sh" from the end of the table, and a girl in a red beret, having done her best to preserve quiet, reducks her head in Good Housekeeping. Conversations about evening dresses, conversations about dates and dances, . . . conversations. Energetic persons with piles of books from which they copy the name, author and publisher on little white cards. A Senior writes fluently a composition for Dr. Connor . . . scratch, scratch. Ye gods, what chewing gum popping! Sounds like Kresge's. A pale and wan English major slowly and stubbornly translates Anglo-Saxon with the aid of a Bible. The librarian's bell tinkles. Relief. Peace. Whoopee! (Do you remember?)
